Immediately following the freshman game, the Blue Key organizations of the two colleges will present a dance at the Youth Memorial Recreation Center. At the dance a trophy will be presented to the winning team of the freshman game.

Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, the varsity teams of the two institutions will meet on the gridiron for the fifty-second time.

Clemson students must report back on the campus by ten o'clock Sunday night and will resume classes Monday morning.

In order to select one man for president, another election will be held Thursday.

Williams Speaks To Members Of Wesley Foundation At Meet

Dr. Jack Williams, a member of the social science department of Clemson, spoke last night at the regular Wednesday night meeting of the Wesley Foundation, the Methodist student organization. The subject of his talk was "The Christian Outlook on the World Situation."

On the twenty-seventh of October the Wesley Foundation program will be presented by a deputation from another college. It is hoped that the deputation this time will be from Anderson College.

There will be no Wesley Foundation meeting next Wednesday night, October 20. The next regular meeting will be held on October 27.

In winning the election, Cox and Austin defeated William Brown, with 51 votes; George McDaniel, with 27 votes; and Joe Miller, with 29 votes.

Richey, electrical engineering major from Baltimore, Maryland, who had 157 votes; E. L. Shokes, an electrical engineering major from Charleston, who had 153 votes; Jerry Sinclair, mechanical engineering major from Camden, who had 169 votes; and Fred West, also a mechanical engineering major from Camden, who had 142 votes.

Defeated in the race for class representatives were Ronnie Gruber, with 104 votes, and Joe Whisonant, with 91 votes.

Between 220 and 240 freshmen voted in the class elections. This is approximately 25% of the total possible vote.

Luetwyler Receives Westinghouse Award For Scholarship

John C. Luetwyler, a chemical engineering senior from Savannah, Georgia, was awarded a Westinghouse Achievement Scholarship certificate at the meeting of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, held last Tuesday night in Olin Hall.

The certificate, representing a scholarship award for "outstanding scholastic achievement and qualities of leadership," was presented by Dr. J. H. Sams, Dean of the School of Engineering.

Luetwyler applied for the Westinghouse scholarship in May of this year. He was informed that he had been granted the award, which carries a stipend of $500, in June, and the official presentation of the award certificate was made at the ASCE meeting.

In addition to being a member of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, Luetwyler is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic fraternity, and Tau Beta Pi, national engineering fraternity.

Following the presentation of the scholarship Tuesday night, a film on the subject of radioactivity was shown. It dealt in detail with the production, properties, and formation of radioactive isotopes.

Be Careful Over The State Fair Holidays

NEXT week-end will be one of the most exciting of the year for the Clemson College student. It is the week-end of the annual Clemson Carolina football game, held in Columbia during State Fair week.

For everyone it is a long week-end, beginning on Wednesday and ending on Sunday night. For the freshmen it is especially important. For the majority of the new boys it will be the first time they will be able to go home after entering Clemson in September.

Excitement breeds accidents. There will be a large amount of traffic on the hi-ways all week-end. A meeting of all of these excited people on the hi-way could result in fatal accidents. It will certainly be a big week-end, but please, BE CAREFUL!

Keep The New Dorms In Shape For The Future

SINCE our arrival here in September, one of the main things we have been hearing is "Be careful with the new facilities; don't put your feet on the new tables; don't use the floors for an ashtray."

These little words of warning have grown old to many of us. Costs, costs, costs, that's all they have drummed into us. This table cost a certain amount. That chair cost the state so much. These words might be getting a little boring to us, but just sit down and think for a minute. How many millions of dollars have been spent to get us one of the most livable dormitories in the world? Think of the work that has gone into laying each piece of tile, putting in each window pane. How many students following in our footsteps will have to use these dormitories? Any reasonable person can see the necessity for protecting this property.

We couldn't ask for better facilities to live in. Let's help keep it for those students who will be coming to Clemson in the future.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Blue Key To Sponsor Dance In Columbia After Frosh Football Game

By JOE McCOWN

STATE FAIR

Well, as usual for this time of the year, the State Fair holidays are rapidly approaching. Almost everyone except those who are sick, dead, or Republicans, know about the big game, so there's not much use in mentioning it. However, there will be a dance sponsored by the Blue Key chapters of Clemson and the University of South Carolina to further friendly (?) relationships between the two schools. The dance will be held at the Memorial Youth Center near Five Points in Columbia, after the freshman football game. The tickets will be $1.50, staggerin or drag, with the dress informal.

Last week, a few Clemson supporters and the Pershing Rifles drill platoon practically ran the Florida cheering section out of business. They really got out and raised h— for the team. On the other hand, the week before last, the entire school cheering section at the V. P. I. game sounded like a third class wake.

I don't know exactly what this proves, except that the cheering section can be good or bad, according to what the score is. Well, to support a winner, and drop a loser is only human nature, but human nature or no human nature, there will be no excuse for not supporting the team, win or lose, when they play on Big Thursday. On that day, not only the team, but the school and its spirit will be on exhibition, so live it up.

FROSH VOTES

A slight word to the freshmen. The turnout at the freshman elections was not all that it should be. I know that all of you freshmen have heard that old story about voting being both a right and a duty for every one. No matter how old and shopworn that story seems, it still holds true. The right of partial self-government has been placed in the hands of the students of Clemson. How that right is used depends mainly upon us, the students. If we do not respect the right of self-government enough to use it properly by voting when we are supposed to, then the right is of no use to us, and therefore it may as well be taken away from us. You freshmen have three years left to make up for not voting in this election by voting wisely in future elections.

HOMECOMING

When I first heard the announcement that the Harry James-Homecoming dance deal had taken a dive in the first round, my feelings could be described in one word—shaft. It seemed, at that moment, that the chances for the most promising season that the CDA has had in several years had been nipped in the bud. All that I could foresee for the future was a bunch of dull dances, with the music furnished by groups of totally unknown and uninteresting musicians, as has happened previously.

The one thing that this year's dance season needed to give it a shot in the arm was a nationally known dance band under contract to play for one of the dances. The reason that we need these so-called "big deal" bands is not from the quality of music standpoint, but rather from the viewpoint that nationally known bands are better drawing cards than the not so well known bands, regardless of the quality of music played by the respective bands. Anyway, on with the story. When the CDA found that they had lost good ole H. J. to a television show, they had two choices. One was to hire some band that would be available on three weeks notice at some hellishly high price. Most outside bands that can be booked at that short a notice aren't worth the price of a phone call. The other choice was to hire the Jungaleers, who did such a great job at the Rat Hop. The Jungaleers have a band that is as good, or better than that of anyone that we could hire to come in from the outside to play for our dances. The only thing that they lack is a nationally known name to serve as a drawing card. And frankly, good music, under any name, is good music. I honestly believe that when the CDA hired the Jungaleers instead of some other band for the Homecoming Dance, they made one of the smartest moves that they have made in years. As I said, the Jungaleers are very good, and another consideration is that they will not charge such a great sum of money as to prevent the CDA from hiring that "name band" for the Mid-Winters later on in the year.

So in this case it will be possible to have a good Homecoming Dance, and still be able to schedule an orchestra for the Mid-Winters that will draw a lot of people.

A Word To The Wise

By FRAMPTON HARPER, Cadet Chaplain

Last year the students at Clemson voted on several prayers, one of which was adopted as the official cadet prayer. I know that some of you say that you don't need a prayer written out in order for you to be able to speak with God; but before you make that decision, read this prayer through carefully and see how well it covers everything concerning our college lives.

"Almighty God, Creator of the universe and Author of all knowledge, we thank Thee for the privilege of attending this institution which is so filled with opportunities for us to develop our minds and our lives. We ask Thy richest blessings upon it and upon our families and loved ones who have made it possible for us to be here. Forgive us when we fail to do our best. Create within our minds a desire to succeed. Give us insight to realize that success apart from Thy will is impossible. Help us to seek and to know this will. Give us receptive and open minds. Give us the ability to weigh and to consider. Guide our professors that they might inspire us to reach for higher goals. Direct each member of the administration, faculty, and of all departments and services to our school that it might continue to grow and expand its positive influence upon mankind. Amen."

Last year a copy of this prayer was given to each student at Clemson. We are having them printed now and we hope to get them out to you soon after State Fair holidays. This prayer was written anonymously by a student last year, and if one person can put into words the feelings and praise of so many students, I think that we can at least make use of his work. The copy that we give you is not meant for the trash can, or even the bottom of your footlocker; glue it in your Bible, on your mirror, or put it in your wallet where you can have access to it easily. Keep it and use it.

DON'T GET ME WRONG, BUT

Daniels Construction Paid The College $8,000 For Cleaning Dorm Windows

By LAWRENCE STARKEY

A NEW LIGHT

After writing at considerable length last week about the dusty condition of the rooms into which the students moved, it was called to my attention by the administration that a sum of about $8,000 was paid to the college by Daniels Construction Company if the administration would be responsible for cleaning the windows of the new dormitories. An additional sum was paid if the college would agree to have the floors cleaned.

Too many times facts lay hidden until stirred up by public opinion. This bit of information is surely enlightening and I'm pleased to know it. Had the students known it, I'm sure they would have cleaned their rooms with an attitude even more splendid and willing than they had. Had I known this, this column would have assumed a different viewpoint last week.

An Open House of the new dormitories will be held on November 6 for parents, friends and alumni. Now that the dust is beginning to disappear, the administration intends to get the dormitories in top shape for this event.

MUSIC IS MUSIC

The news that Harry James will be unable to come to Clemson for the Homecoming Dance was rather unwelcome. This left the Central Dance Association three weeks to sign a big name band. The most optimistic persons realize that this is an impossibility.

Therefore, the C. D. A. has decided, rather than to sign up a band which no one has ever heard of, to select the Jungaleers for a return performance. In view of the most favorable comments I heard on the Jungaleers after the "Rat Hop", this seems like a very good move. It will save enough time and money to line up a big-name band for the Mid-Winters Ball.

I hope the troops won't decide not to attend the dance because of the sudden let-down. Homecoming is Homecoming, dancing is dancing, and good music is good music, no matter who plays. Let's give this dance our whole-hearted support!

BIG, BIG, BIG THURSDAY!

No matter what I attempt to write about this week, I always find myself returning to the only subject this time of year — Big Thursday!

When the referee's whistle blows on this October 21, one of the largest crowds ever will gather to watch the fight to the death between the Tigers and the Gamecocks.

In some games a person may assume a neutral air, but not on Big Thursday. All neutrality ceases, and a mist of intense rivalry covers Carolina Stadium.

THE OLD DAYS

This afternoon I thumbed through some old books and papers at the South Carolina room of the Library. It seems that as early as 1909, the students looked to the State Fair game with a wild anticipation that exceeds even ours.

The student writers wrote with an unconquerable college spirit and an enthusiastic pride in the glory of Clemson. One editor really got carried away when he wrote, "Let us make TIGERISM synonymous with VICTORIOUS, CHIVALROUS, and GLORIOUS!"

Pride sometimes turned to vanity. The following is taken from an issue of the Tiger in October, 1911: "Seven hundred men from all parts of such a great state, representing the best families of the State and the best specimens of young manhood that the State affords, and all wearing brand new uniforms from the best college in the State, are a great feature of a State Fair and anything in which they may have a part."

A CHALLENGE

I sometimes wonder what the newspapers of 1911 could have found to say about the fair if the Clemson cadets had not been there. The following clippings from The State newspaper, should certainly challenge our conduct at any event:

"Nowadays a State Fair without the Clemson cadets would be dull. Nothing adds half so much to the picturesqueness of the streets as the 700 clear-eyed, up-standing young fellows in uniform, who move through them in twos and fours and dozens all day long. It is a pessimist indeed who does not in these youths behold the promise of a steadily improving citizenship, a manly and self-respecting citizenship, having regard for authority and faith in law."

"They are fine boys, these cadets, and, what is more to the point, they are our boys. Thousands will line the streets to see them and ringing cheers will greet them, Carolinians to the manner born."

LET'S SHOW OUR SPIRIT

A Carolina pep meeting is scheduled for Tuesday night. It is to start at the quadrangle at 8:15 and move on to the amphitheatre. This has long been the largest and most impressive rally of the year.

The satirical pomp in the burying of the old Gamecock has always held a special fascination for Clemson fans. This year, the Gamecock's destruction may be particularly significant. So let's show our spirit ahead of time—Tuesday night.

DISCO-PA-TION

By Mack McDaniel

Quite a number of the famous band leaders of today led bands during their early days at college. The most famous of these early bands was led by Les Brown. His band began at Duke University in the early '30s.

The orchestra was known as the Duke "Blue Devils," and was one of two on-campus bands. The other was led, first by Johnny Long and later by Sonny Burke. (These two men also became famous band leaders.)

When Brown left Duke in 1936, he took the band with him to turn briefly on a co-operative basis. The band soon dissolved since most of his sidemen were not interested in music as a career. Later, he formed a strictly professional band, taking Don Kramer, the drummer from the old band, with him.

Hoagy Carmichael helped pay for his education at Indiana University by leading a three piece combo on campus.

Bing Crosby's earliest musical experience was gained at Gonzaga University (Spokane, Washington) where he organized a campus band. After he finished college, he went into vaudeville.

Other famous bandleaders who started in college were Del Courtney, Kay Kyser, Erskine Hawkins, Horace Heidt, Sammy Kaye, Elliot Lawrence, Freddy Martin, Rudy Vallee, and Fred Waring. Paul Weston and Hugo Winterhalter were also campus leaders. Among musicians who led high school dance bands are: Dick Todd, Tony Scott, Jerry Gray and Spike Jones.

A Capital Hi-Fi 10" long playing release that is a must for anyone who enjoys music is June Christy's Something Cool. The seven great tunes in the collection are Midnight Sun, Something Cool, I Should Care, Lonely House, It Could Happen To You, A Stranger Called The Blues, and I'll Take Romance.

June is backed up by Pete Rugolo and his orchestra. Pete, by the way, was formerly with Stan Kenton. The title song, Something Cool, is a fine composition by a young west coast musician, Bill Barnes. To quote the back cover of the album, "Like a long iced drink or a brisk sea breeze . . . singing with an easy lift, in an intriguing way that's quite as desirable as something cool on a warm summer's day."

RCA has released a second volume of the Glenn Miller Limited Edition. From the looks of the stock in the record shops, these "Limited Editions" are not so limited. The album has about 60 tunes in it and sells for $24.95. A lot of money but well worth it.

Among the popular best sellers are the Ames Brothers' One More Time, Eddie Fisher's I Need You Now, and Leo Diamond's The High and the Mighty. The Sauter-Finegan orchestra has recorded a nice little bit called Pale Moon. Jazz on the Campus LTD, Volume 1, an RCA release features Max Kaminsky and his Dixieland Bathers. A few of the titles are I Wish I Could Shimmy Like My Sister Kate, Ugly Chile, Santonio Blues, and Carry Me Back to Old Kaminsky.

Pacific Jazz Records has recorded many of the west coast jazz groups. One of the most famous is the Gerry Mulligan Quartet. On several of the disks, Lee Konitz is featured playing Lover Man, I Can't Believe That You're in Love with Me, and Lady Be Good. With the exception of Stan Getz, Konitz is the only musician who has "sat in" with the Mulligan Quartet.

Jeri Southern's recording of You Better Go Now is backed by Camarata and his orchestra. The alto sax solo is very good, but the artists' name is not on the label. It sounds a lot like Toots Montello who has made several records with Jackie Gleason.

Jackie Gleason's orchestra is an example of what good financial backing, a good arranger and good musicians will produce. The recordings that he has made will become classics.

Framp Harper Named Senior Of The Week

Senior personality this week is William F. "Framp" Harper, a textile manufacturing major from York, South Carolina.

"Framp" is chaplain of the cadet corps and president of the senior class this year. He was in the Freshman Platoon and Pershing Rifles Organization. He is treasurer of the Canterbury Club, vice-president of Blue Key, and secretary of the Tiger Brotherhood.

He is also a member of The Executive Sergeants Club, Arnold Air Society, Scabbard and Blade Senior Platoon, and Phi Psi, an honor textile fraternity.

As chaplain, Framp has many jobs. He has to have the blessing at all meals, write "Words to the Wise" and is getting out The Cadet's Prayer at the present time. In general, he takes care of all the student's religious activities in coordination with the campus churches.

He expects to receive a commission with the Air Force as soon as he graduates and plans to do textile work after his hitch in the service.

"Framp" says most of his spare time is taken up with problems of the chaplain and senior class president; but when he gets home for holidays, he likes to do a little hunting and fishing.

Clemson Man Mentioned In Magazine

A 1928 Clemson College graduate—Reid Ramsey Davis—is featured in the lead story of the current Popular Science magazine. Davis has made a name for himself in radio and black and white television since he received his electrical engineering degree.

And according to Popular Science, Rod (his perennial nickname) is headed for even greater prominence in color television. It was Davis who was in charge of lights and cameras for the first experimental color telecast of the National Broadcasting Co. in New York.

When color TV was in its experimental stage, Davis was head man of 500 engineers doing black and white. He gave up this post in 1952, according to Popular Science, to man a staff of 20 experimenters on colored television. Davis said he has never regretted this move.

Radio work was anything but familiar to the Toccoa, Ga., native in 1928, but it was Davis who put the late Graham McNamee on the air in the first coast-to-coast sports hook-up.

Other milestones which the Clemson graduate has developed was a special amplifier for White House broadcasts and he installed the multi-microphone set-up needed at the corner stone laying of Radio City. He also worked on the master control board installation in Radio City.

The TV master craftsman made a recent trip to Clemson which might be the beginning of another producer of things yet unheard of and unseen. Dr. Davis brought his son to Clemson to enroll as a freshman last month, and with a parting pat on the back left with this probable thought—that in a few short years, he could sit back and watch with enjoyment a show his son was masterminding, a show which could not have been produced without some earlier sweat of the "daddy rabbit" of color television lighting.

Letters To Tom Clemson

Dear Tom:

I just wanted to write you a letter and let you know the circumstances concerning the Homecoming dance, Nov. 5 and 6.

As you know, we had signed a contract for the services of Harry James and his orchestra. Last Monday after we had checked up, we found that we had enough money to sign the contract with The Music Corporation of America. I called Mr. Bob Piper of the Music Corporation of America and he assured me that Harry James would be here. The next day I received a telegram from Mr. Piper which read, "Having some trouble. Harry James possibly television show starting earlier than expected, appreciate you holding up advertising until know definitely. Will call you tomorrow." As soon as I got this telegram I called Mr. Piper and told him that as far as Clemson College was concerned we had a contract since the deposit had already been sent to him and we had already started our advertising. He assured me that he was doing everything he could to get James to change his mind. He also told me that he would let me know something definite on Wednesday.

I received the call on Wednesday and he said the date had been cancelled by Harry James. Now I would like to give you a few excerpts from a letter I received from Mr. Piper.

"I am truly sorry that we will be unable to work together on the appearance of this fine attraction and I sincerely hope that you will be able to arrange for the appearance of an orchestra which will make your dance a complete success. As I explained to you in our conversation, it is imperative that Harry James return to the west coast one week earlier than originally scheduled since he must make a television appearance on November 14. Once again my regrets over the unfortunate circumstances surrounding this cancellation. I hope that in the future we will be able to work together on one of your other social functions. Kindest regards."

Now, Tom, you can see the position we were in. We had three weeks to get a top notch band that would equal Harry James. As you know, this is impossible to do, since most bands stay booked three months in advance. We feel that your student body deserves the very best and that is exactly what we want to give them. Feeling this way, we decided to have the Junglers again, instead of getting some lesser known band that nobody had ever heard of.

I'm sure that you will go along with us on this deal and your student body will back us up.

Sincerely,
George Bennett
President of CDA

Editor's note: The following letter was received from Lewis Henry, former editor of the TIGER:

Dear Tom:
I am now comfortably settled in Korea and I'm increasing my correspondence. I miss my typewriter more than I thought I would. I am having to learn how to write again.

I am now with a graves registration company in Korea. The company played a very important part in Operations Glory. Our part was finished yesterday when we sent our last remains to Japan for processing and identification.

Many bodies will be returned to us (at the United Nations Cemetery) for burial. Of course all American remains will be returned to the States.

The cemetery is beautiful — said to be the most beautiful man made spot in Korea. It is built on a hill. The top has been leveled for the memorial plateau. Here are twenty plots of the twenty-one nations participating in the Korean conflict. Belgium and Luxembourg share a plot.

The United Nations flag and the flags of the nations represented fly on the plots on the plateau. It is a very colorful sight. The grass and the flowers are well kept and add to the beauty.

The other graves in the cemetery are in larger plots on the gently sloping hillside. Each nation has its own plot.

I am tentatively slated to do field work. We send out search and recovery teams to search battle areas and to recover any remains found. I'll probably go on my first field search late this month for about two months.

I will have a small detachment from the company, Korean interpreters, and a platoon of Korean engineers to clear the mine fields we will be going through.

We'll be working in the mountains most of the time. This afternoon I practiced my mountain climbing. One of the other officers and I climbed a steep mountain behind the cemetery. It was a tiring hike but the view was wonderful.

I would appreciate your doing some investigating for me. I want to see if there is any way I can help a Korean captain go to school in the States. All of the officers in the company are trying to help him.

Captain Yon is Korean liaison officer at the cemetery. He is 22 years old, is married and has three little boys. He finished college with a degree in mechanical engineering. For a year he taught math in high school. Then he studied chemistry at Seoul University.

He was there when the war started. Although he had four months before completion of the course, he received a certificate.

He wants to study chemical engineering in the States, but he must have a fellowship or scholarship. Actually he is financially able to pay his own way, but his family would be able to send him only $80 a month.

If he can get a scholarship or fellowship, the Korean government will pay his transportation expenses. And with the money he gets from home, he said he will be able to live.

He is an outstanding man—with high ideals—and we're anxious to help him. If you know any fellowships or scholarships available, I wish you would let me know.

Sincerely,
Lewis Henry

Marine Corps Commission Plan Is Announced

The Marine Corps Officer Procurement Officer has announced that applications are now being accepted from students who desire to earn a commission in the Marine Corps while completing college.

Freshmen, Sophomores and Juniors, pursuing a course of study other than pre-medical, pre-dental, theology, pharmacy or music, are being selected for the PLATOON LEADERS CLASS. All training is conducted during two six week summer classes. Candidates receive $149.05, as pay, for the first class and $183.45 for the second class. Uniforms, food and travel allowances are also furnished. Members of the PLATOON LEADERS CLASS are deferred from induction. Commissions are tendered upon graduation from college.

Seniors and graduates may apply for the OFFICER CANDIDATE COURSE. Commissions are tendered to candidates who successfully complete a ten-week training class after graduation from college. Mid-term graduates are now being enrolled for the 13th OCC which convenes in March 1955. Candidates eligible for the 13th class must be graduated by 15 February.

Training for both programs is conducted at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Virginia. Successful candidates are appointed to commissioned rank in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve and must agree to serve on active duty for three years.

Officers commissioned through either program are initially assigned to the Office Basic School, also at Quantico, for five additional months of instruction. Many officers then receive specialist training in various fields including aviation, artillery, tracked vehicles, supply, engineering and others.

Anyone interested may see or write to Captain F. R. Hittinger, Jr., Officer Procurement Officer, Room 537, Peachtree - Seventh Building, N. E., Atlanta, Georgia.

Boyce And Kuemmerer Win International Scholarships

Henry R. Kuemmerer of Walhalla and Thomas E. Boyce of Joanna have been named by Clemson College officials as the recipients of two Interchemical Corp. scholarships for the school year 1954-55.

Including Kuemmerer and Boyce there are now four students at Clemson receiving aid from Interchemical. Last year Framp Harper of York and Dave R. Gentry of Easley were winners. Each scholarship is worth $250 per year and is given during the students' junior and senior year at Clemson.

Interchemical's main office is in New York, but there are three plants in New Jersey and the textile colors division is at Rock Hill, S. C.

Thirteen boys majoring in textile chemistry, textile engineering, textile manufacturing, general chemistry and physics applied for the scholarship this year. The college scholarship committee, of which Registrar G. E. Metz is chairman, based its selection on scholastic standing, need, character, and leadership potential.

Kuemmerer, the son of Mrs. Janie G. Kuemmerer (600 S. Tug-aloo St., Walhalla) is majoring in general chemistry. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary chemical society, and is a student affiliate of the American Chemical Society. He has a grade point ratio of 3.4 out of a possible 4.0.

Boyce, whose grade point ratio is 3.68, is majoring in textile engineering. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Boyce, are both employed at Joanna Mills. He is also a member of Phi Eta Sigma and is secretary of Phi Psi, national honorary textile fraternity.

Gentry lives at Rt. 2, Easley, and commutes each day to his classes at Clemson. He is the son of Mrs. T. H. Gentry and is majoring in textile manufacturing. Gentry, who's grade point ratio is 3.1, serves as president of Phi Psi and is a member of the National Textile Manufacturers Society. Since entering Clemson he has been a member of the Junglers, the Freshmen 'Y' Council and concert band.

A textile manufacturing major, Harper is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Harper of York. He has a grade point ratio of 2.58, and is president of the senior class; cadet chaplain; member of Blue Key and Tiger Brotherhood, both honorary leadership fraternities; Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity; Arnold Air Society; YMCA cabinet; Phi Psi; and the senior platoon.

W. DePass, a 1933 graduate of Clemson, is divisional vice-president at the Rock Hill plant and made arrangements with the college for the Interchemical scholarships, which total $3,000.

The Veteran's Corner

Here are authoritative answers from the Veterans Administration to four questions of interest to former servicemen and their families:

Q. Is it possible to obtain additional Korean GI training allowances because I am supporting my parents? Or are the extra amounts limited only to married veterans?

A. It would be possible to obtain the higher rate of GI allowance if you are supporting your parents, and are single. They will have to fill out a VA form, "Statement of Dependency" which may be obtained at any VA office. You must submit a certified copy of the public record of your birth, or the church records of your baptism.

Q. I want to study law under the Korean GI Bill. Would I be allowed to take a bar review course after I complete my college work?

A. Yes. On your application form, list "Lawyer" as your objective. And put down both "Bachelor of Laws degree" and "Bar Review Course" as your training program leading to the objective.

Q. A friend of mine is a totally and permanently disabled World War One veteran who is receiving an extra pension allowance because he needs regular aid and attendance of another person. He has just been admitted to a VA hospital. Will his extra allowance continue while he is hospitalized?

A. No. The higher pension rate for regular aid and attendance does not apply when the veteran is hospitalized by VA.

Q. Is it possible to get a loan on a GI term insurance policy?

A. No. A GI term insurance policy has no loan value. A GI permanent plan, on the other hand, does have loan value after it has been in effect for one year.

Tigers Top Gators 14-7, Even Record For Year

CHARLIE BUSSEY, TIGER QUARTERBACK

BUSSEY

Brilliant Quarterback For Second Tiger Eleven

By BILL LEITNER

Charlie Bussey, Clemson's "scintillating soph" quarterback, receives this week's Esquire Shops For Men award for his outstanding play against Florida's Gator last Saturday night.

Charlie thus receives another honor in a long and successful sports career. It all began in Henderson, N. C., with a former Erskine full-back and a little boy. The boy was Charlie and the man, his father.

Mr. Bussey, now manager of Henderson Vulcanizing Company, raised his son to be an athlete. The former high school coach had an apt pupil in the now 20 year old, 6 feet even, 160 pounder. Charlie got rolling early and made the Henderson High football and baseball teams as a freshman.

His sophomore and junior years he lettered as gridiron quarterback and diamond short-stop. And when 1952, Bussey's final prep year came up, Coach Winston Siegried, now of F. S. U., and Mr. Bussey knew Charlie was ready. As team co-captain he fulfilled all expectations in leading the Henderson eleven to the state finals.

Charlie did not play in the Shrine Bowl, but his performance in the High School All-Star Game at Greensboro attracted much attention. This gave Captain James Spratt, U. S. Army, a loyal Clemson alumnus, some anxious moments.

Capt. Spratt was stationed in Henderson and realized Charlie's potential. He brought Bussey to Clemson and talked to him about coming here. Charlie and his folks liked what they saw, and when a scholarship was offered, Bussey accepted much to the chagrin of several schools near his home.

Clemson got more than a football player on that scholarship. Charlie was outstanding all around in high school. In addition to his six letters, three baseball, three football, he was a member of the Beta Club, Vice-president of the Student Body, and President of his Senior Class.

Here at Clemson he has compiled an outstanding and enviable record. A member of the Tiger Brotherhood and North Carolina Club, he has maintained a "B" average in the class room. The T. M. sophomore is also company clerk of Company C-4.

Charlie entered Clemson last fall. His fine play at the quarterback slot in opening practice sessions marked the pattern of the slender, smiling lad. Bussey caught the imagination of both the Clemson fans and coaches with his field generalship, passing, and ball handling.

He led the Baby Bengals in a great near upset against the Georgia Tech J. V. by passing for two touchdowns as the Jackets won 14-12. P. C. next felt Bussey's claws as he again passed for one T. D. and scored another. Then came Carolina.

After leading the frosh Eleven to two touchdowns, Charlie was hurt blocking for Jim Coleman on a punt return. The injury caused him to miss nearly all of the Georgia game and most of the Furman scrap, but he had played enough to prove he had the necessary potential.

When spring practice came, Charlie took over the second string quarterback position. He played well all spring and changed his cleats to baseball spikes performing at short-stop on the freshman nine.

This September Charlie showed enough to convince Frank Howard that he was the quarterback needed for the "other" team. Don King was performing in his usual splendid manner but an adequate replacement was badly needed in the event of a King injury. Charlie looked like the man for the job.

Coach Howard kept Bussey out of the P. C. game not wishing to aggravate his leg injury. King got hurt and Bussey was called on to lead the Tigers against the Georgia Bulldogs. Charlie was the man on the "hot seat" but he kept the Tigers on the ground and out-gained the Bulldogs. Only Jimmy Harper's unerring passes kept the game Tigers from capturing a victory.

This past weekend Florida was all set for the "King" and his court. When the Gators stopped Clemson's aerial circus, Coach Howard called on his "new look" second unit to move the ball. "Prince Charlie" took his unit in and they marched 79 yards on the ground to set up the Tiger's initial score. Later they returned, and Crimmins Hankinson grabbed a Gator pass, returning it to the Gator 41. Bussey capitalized on the break and masterminded a 59 yard scoring drive which put Clemson ahead to stay.

The great upset was a terrific team effort, but much of the punch in the Tiger attack came from Bussey's field strategy. With more experience and poise gained from coaching, practice, and the hard knocks of actual game participation, "The Prince" should develop into a quarterback capable of helping to give the Tigers a balanced two-team attack.

Avery, Desimone, Bussey, Coleman Tie For Award

This week, both the back of the week, and the lineman of the week voting resulted in a tie. Charlie Bussey and Jim Coleman are co-backs, and Wingo Avery and Dick DeSimone have been named co-linemen.

By LEWIS CROMER

Once again this week, the roar of the Tiger echoes through the hills of the Southland. The Tigers have come through. For the first time this season, Coach Howard's charges look like a great ball club. Saturday night, King, Bussey and company gave the Florida Gators their first setback of the year against a Southeastern foe.

The Gators, with victories under their belts from Georgia Tech and Auburn on successive Saturdays, did not think too seriously about the Clemson encounter. Clemson was a 14-28 point underdog going into the encounter.

The gentlemen from the Blue Ridge, however, had other ideas and came through with one of the biggest upsets of the season. It was truly a team victory for the Bengals. No one individual can be singled out. The unit performance of the Tigers was the best that it has been all season.

ORCHIDS TO THE TIGS

The Tiger line was as stout as a stone wall against the Florida attack. Time and time again the swift Gator backs would try the flanks and the center, all to no avail.

Dick DeSimone, the sophomore sensation, B. C. Inabinet, Clyde White, and Wingo Avery led the forward wall to their best Saturday of the season as they held the Gator backs to the smallest rushing yardage thus far this season for the Floridians.

Charlie Bussey had his greatest night for the Orange and Purple. He led the Clemson "B" unit on the two sustained drives that spelled the difference in the contest. "Prince Charlie" mixed his plays well and his deception was a cog in the Tiger machine. Don King also played a fine game, though the big Gator line hampered his passing a great deal. Jim Coleman gave the Floridians an eyeful as he reeled off yardage on every carry and baffled the Gator secondary with his swivelhipped running. "Gentleman Jim" was certainly in rare form.

"The Vanishing American," Buck George, and the Columbia comet, Joel Wells, also played a whale of a game. But, as I have said before, there were no individual stars—it was a team victory for the Howardmen.

BLACK AND WHITE AND GLAD ALL OVER

Several erroneous reports have reached my ears that Clemson had around 1,000 students on hand for the Florida encounter. Well, that is false. Outside of a small group of Tiger supporters and the cheerleaders, only the Pershing Rifles were in the Tiger cheering section. It is easy to understand how one could imagine that there was a thousand, though, because those fellows really showed the Clemson spirit to the Florida folk.

Throughout the game, the cheerleaders and the troops on hand really stayed with our team, even when we were behind 7 points. The Tigers merited our confidence and came back to win. The faithful few were certainly rewarded by that victory.

The Florida cheerleaders refused to believe that only a few were responsible for all the yelling in the Clemson section. The black and white clad PR's, who incidentally put on a wonderful halftime ceremony, were a credit to the cheering section. What a hot time there was in the old town of Jacksonville Saturday night!!

ARE WE GONNA BEAT CAROLINA?

There is over a week until Big Thursday and already the campus is buzzing with excitement. There's not a man on the campus who doesn't have this question in his heart: "Will this be OUR year?"

I believe that it will. To be sure, it won't be easy to lick the team that licked Army. Carolina has their best team in many years and better balance and depth that they had last year down Columbia way. Their records shows that!

Clemson will have to improve its pass defense against the Gamecocks. The Roosters boast two of the ACC's top flingers in Harold Lewis and Mackie Prickett. Both of these two gentlemen can really hurl that rock. If the Tigers can throw up the defense that they threw up in the second half of the Florida game, I believe there will be great rejoicing in Tigertown on Friday.

The Tigers, with the Florida victory under their belts, should be at top physical and mental strength for the Big Thursday encounter. With Don King and Charlie Bussey in the driver's seat and the Tiger men playing the kind of ball that we now know they're capable of, it should be our year. The Tigers haven't won this classic in many moons and are ready to win one now.

BIG THURSDAY

As usual, a capacity crowd is expected for the Clemson-Carolina game. Many of those on hand will be Clemson students; many will also be pseudo-Clemson students. A pseudo-Clemson student is a guy who gets into the game on a Clemson man's student ticket.

There has been much discussion about this fellow. Personally, I believe that it's all right to sell one's ticket under certain conditions. The fellow from Pennsylvania, for instance, who hasn't been home since school opened, has, I think, a perfect right to sell his ticket in order to help him to get home. This holds true in other cases as well.

I do not believe, however, that a Clemson man who lives within a hundred miles of Columbia should sell his ticket merely for the sake of "scalping a few extra dollars." The man who does that is not showing much regard for or pride in his school. The Tigers need our support. Let's be there to give it to 'em. Let's all turn out to cheer our Tigers on to victory this Big Thursday. Believe me, no matter what the outcome may be, you won't be disappointed. See you in Columbia!!

Bussey Directs Tiger Drives

By BILL LINTON

Clemson's rampaging Tigers used a powerful running game to beat the highly favored Florida Gators 14 to 7 before an estimated crowd of over 28,000 stunned Florida fans. The Bengals pushed the Gators all over the field during the first half, but were unable to score.

The Tigers with the memory of 1952's 53 to 13 defeat at the hands of these same Gators still fresh in their minds, tore the Gator line to shreds with Jim Coleman, Billy O'Dell and Neuf Ankuta eating up sizable hunks of yardage in an 80 yard scoring drive, which ended on the first play of the fourth period. Then the Tigers came right back to march 79 yards and another touchdown after a pass interception.

Don King, with a minus 36 rushing average for the game, climaxed the 80 yard drive by scoring from the 6 inch line on a quarterback sneak. Jim Coleman, the work horse of the Tiger ground attack, scored the last touchdown from one yard out on a handoff from quarterback Charlie Bussey. Tackle Clyde White gave the Tigers 2 insurance points in the last 45 seconds of the game when he broke through and tackled Florida's Fred Robinson in the end zone for a safety.

The upset win was a great one for Coach Frank Howard's men from the Hills, who were at least a 2 touchdown underdog. The Tigers had lost to Georgia and V. P. I., on two successive weekends while Coach Bob Woodruff's Gators had played giant killer the past two weeks by beating Georgia Tech and Auburn, two of the highly ranked teams in the U. S.

Coleman was Clemson's leading ground gainer for the night with a total of 51 yards. The running of Billy O'Dell with 42 yards and Ankuta with 34 also sparkled. The Tigers rolled up 170 yards on the ground and led in first downs 21 to 10.

The Bengal's bone crushing defense led by ends Scott Jackson and Harry Hicks, guard Dick DeSimone and tackle Clyde White, kept the highly touted Gator offense off balance all night.

More than 1000 Tiger followers from South Carolina were on hand to give the Bengals plenty of support. The Tigers wore white jerseys and black pants and the Gators were dressed out in blue jerseys and white pants.

Florida's leading ground gainer, fullback Malcolm Hammack, was injured on the first play from scrimmage and had to be helped from the field. He was not able to return because the extent of his injury could not be determined.

Clemson got an early break when guard Dick DeSimone pounced on a fumble by Florida's Hobby Lance. Clemson's ball on the Florida 39. The Tiger's Billy O'Dell quickly got a first down to the Florida 27 but there the Bengal attack bogged down.

The Gators couldn't move the ball and kicked with Clemson getting the ball on their 43. O'Dell carrying 3 times, breaking away once for 15 yards, carried the Tigers to a first down on the Florida 25.

King lost seven yards when he went back to pass and couldn't spot an open receiver. King passed to Scott Jackson for 13 on the fourth down but the Gators took over on their own 21. Again they could not move. Allen kicked and it was Clemson's ball on their 17 at the end of the first quarter. Clemson 0, Florida 0.

Gator quarterback Fred Robinson had a pass ruled complete to Smith. Robinson then ran to the Tiger 21 on a keeper play, but clipping and in-motion penalties killed the threat.

Florida kicked out on the Clemson 26. O'Dell picked up six, Wells got 3 more and O'Dell made it first and ten at the Clemson 37. Wells hit the line twice for 7 yards, carried again for 3 more and King sneaked on fourth down for a first down at the Tiger 49.

Wells made 5 more through the line, but Florida's Davis intercepted a King pass on third down returning to the Clemson 47. Allen passed to Burgess on one knee at the Clemson 41 and then hit Burford for a first and ten on the Clemson 36.

A 15 yard personal foul penalty put the ball on the Clemson 21 with 2:28 left in the first half. Allen's pass was incomplete. Hicks dropped Smith for an 8 yard loss, and Scott Jackson smashed through to smear Lance for a 15 yard loss at the Clemson 46 yard line.

The Bengals took over at this point and King hit Ken Moore with a 23 yard aerial at Florida's 29, with 15 seconds remaining in the first half. The Gators threw King for a 15 yard loss back to the Florida 44. King's pass to Hicks was incomplete but interference was ruled. The half was over, but Clemson was given another play because of the penalty. King's desperation pass was broken up in the end zone. At the end of the half, Clemson 0, Florida 0.

The Tigers held a first down advantage in the first half, 7 to 5. The total yardage was 88 for Clemson as compared with 63 for Florida. Billy O'Dell picked up 38 yards in nine tries and Joel Wells got 10 in 3 attempts. King completed 2 passes for 47 yards. Florida's Robinson netted 16 and John Burgess 14 on the ground. Florida's Allen made good on 5 or 8 passes for 34 yards.

Florida took the third period kickoff and marched 95 yards for a touchdown. Visser returned the kickoff to his 30, a 25 yard return, and Simpson recovered a Lance fumble on the Florida 20, losing five yards. Simpson was pushed out on his 30 and a fifteen yard penalty against Clemson for roughness gave Florida a first down on the Tiger 49.

Davis tore through the line for a four and then Robinson rifled a pass to Simpson on the Clemson 37, where he waded a would be tackler and raced across the double stripes for a T. D. Ed Bass's kick was good as Florida took a 7 to 0 lead with 2:08 minutes gone in the second half.

Florida punted into the Clemson zone when they could not get started again; and Coach Howard sent in Charlie Bussey, Buck George, Jim Coleman, and Hank Hankinson.

Hankinson and George quickly tore through the Gator line for a first and 10 on Clemson's 33. Hankinson, Coleman, and Bussey ripped off yardage to the Tiger 45 for another first. Hankinson, Coleman, Ankuta and an off side penalty put Coleman on the Florida 32 for another first down.

Coleman then broke away on gallops of 11 and 13 yards to put the pigskin on the Florida 9. A backfield in motion penalty hurt, but then Coleman broke away, this time to the Gator's 2 yard line. Bussey was inches short of the goal on the last play of the third quarter.

Don King came back in and sneaked across for the touchdown in 2 seconds of the 4th quarter. Paredes try for the extra point was wide.

The victory hungry Tigers came back again on a pass interception to drive 80 yards in 14 turf ripping, ground plays with Bussey handing off to Coleman for the score. Clyde White added 2 more

Gamecocks Have Rugged Crew; Tigers Are Now At Full Strength

By LEWIS CROMER

Next Thursday at 2:00 p. m., the Clemson College football Tigers and the University of South Carolina Gamecocks will lock horns in the 52nd playing of the annual Big Thursday clash at Columbia.

The Gamecocks, under the tutelage of Coach Rex Enright, have had a fairly successful season this year, having won two games and dropped one. The Carolina Footballers opened the season with a resounding victory over Army, a team rated the best in the Eastern Conference. The Gamecocks downed the Army mule by a score of 34-20.

The Gamecocks next faced the rugged Mountaineers of West Virginia and came out on the short end of a 26-6 count. The Gamecocks were the pre-game favorites, but the Mountaineers proved to have too potent a ground attack for the Carolinians and rolled on to a triumph.

The Gamecocks, on the rebound, conquered the Furman Purple Hurricane in their encounter in Greenville. The Birds, behind some exceptional passing by Mackie Prickett, took the wind out of Furman by a count of 27-7.

The Gamecocks this year boast a well balanced squad. At the end positions the Gamecocks have Don Schulster, a 195 lb. 6 ft. junior, who was outstanding in his play against Furman, and big Joe Silas, the guy who beat the Tigers with his TD grab in last year's Big Thursday. For relief duty at the flank positions, the Gamecocks have Spec Granger, a 190 lb. senior from Greenville, who has lettered for two years on the Carolina varsity.

At tackles for the Gamecocks are Harry Lovell and Gene Kopeck, both of whom are seniors. The Gamecocks lost the services of Bob Schwartz and Hugh Merck for the season due to injuries.

Carolina's Guards are Frank Minceovich, All-South Carolina and All-Southern letterman from last year, and Joe DeFore, a 215 lb., 6 ft. 1 in. Macon, Georgia, lad.

At the center post, Carolina boasts one of the nation's top pivot men in All-American, Leon Cunningham. Big Leon is having one of his best years as a roster center.

In the Gamecock backfield, Coach Enright will probably start his sophomore sensation, Mackie Prickett, Mike Caskey and Carl Brazell at half backs, and Bill

Wohrman at fullback.

Mackie Prickett, the boy wonder from St. Matthews, played himself a whale of a ballgame against the Purple Hurricane and drew the plaudits of the crowd for his unerring passing arm. It is speculated that he has rooted out Harold Lewis, the Gamecocks' regular field general. He will certainly be in there to toss a few against the Country Gentlemen on Big Thursday.

Mike Caskey played his best game against Army. He is a shifty, deceptive halfback who often breaks away for huge chunks of yardage against the opposition. He is already being mentioned for All-Conference this year.

Carl Brazell, the Gamecock versatile athlete, excels on the gridiron as well as the ball diamond. His small size is an asset instead of a liability. He is shifty and fast.

Bill Wohrman, last year's top blocker in the ACC, can always be counted on to play a sterling game on both offense and defense. He runs and tackles exceptionally hard.

Behind these regulars, the Gamecocks boast such reserve backs as Bobby Drawdy, the Summerville Comet, Tommy Woodlee, par excellence on defense, and Crosby Lewis, the ex-Dreher High star.

On the Tiger side of the ledger, things look equally as bright. After the Florida encounter, the Tigers now can boast a "two platoon system" that is effective.

Both the "K" unit under Don King, and the "B" unit under Charlie Bussey put on long drives and tore the Gator defenses to shreds. The Tigers will probably go to the airways in the Carolina fray, but will count largely upon their ground game. Jim Coleman, Joe Pagliei, Joel Wells, Neuf Ankuta, and Buck George have been consistent ground gainers for the Tigers throughout the season. The Tigers will probably start Harry Hicks and Scott Jackson at ends, White and Mattos at

NEUF ANKUTA

Neuf Ankuta Excellent Fullback For Coach Frank Howard's 1954 Bengals

By LOUIS JORDAN

Neuf Ankuta, who stands six feet tall, is well proportioned and weighs 190 pounds, came to Clemson from Brooklyn, New York in 1952. He is a junior now and is majoring in Industrial Education. Neuf is 21 years old.

Prior to coming to Clemson,

Ankuta was a star at Thomas Jefferson High School in Brooklyn. He played for Coach Rip Goldman there his sophomore and junior years but before his senior year the high school coaches in New York quit coaching in order to get more money. For this reason there was no extra-curricular activities for the Brooklyn high schools.

Neuf Ankuta was not offered any scholarships, so he wrote many colleges saying that he had lettered two years before his senior year in high school. He asked for a chance to try out for some of the college teams. Clemson's Coach Howard gave Ankuta this chance and 1952 saw Neuf in the Deep South beginning foot-

What makes a Lucky taste better?

to taste better!

Doubtless, you've guessed that the Droodle at the right is: Careless two-gun cowboy enjoying better-tasting Lucky while waiting in ambush. Lots of other two-gun cowboys—and many millions of no-gun folks—agree that Luckies taste better. Students, for example, prefer Luckies to all other brands, according to the latest, biggest coast-to-coast college survey. Once again, the No. 1 reason is that Luckies taste better. They taste better because Lucky Strike is the cigarette of fine tobacco... and "It's Toasted" to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. So, enjoy the better-tasting cigarette... Lucky Strike.

Big Thursday Game Has Long Colorful History

By FRANK ANDERSON

Possibly the most publicized, most discussed, most unpredictable athletic event in South Carolina is the annual gridiron battle between the Clemson College Tigers and University of South Carolina Gamecocks.

Every year on Thursday of the South Carolina State Fair, these two highly rivaled teams perform in South Carolina's most sensational football extravaganza before a packed arena. Although the fracas is always played in Carolina Stadium in Columbia, thousands of Clemson followers are always on hand for the excitement when South Carolina's top two eleven meet.

When making any bets on who will take the State Fair classic, using pre-season dope and games already played as a guide will not make your chances of winning the bet any better. If any football game in the nation is unpredictable, this one is. For instance, the year the Bengals took perhaps their strongest team in the history of the school to the post season Orange Bowl in Miami, the only mar on the Tig records was 14-14 tie rendered us by the Gamecock underdogs. Again in 1951, when the Country Gentlemen journeyed to Jacksonville and the Gator Bowl, the Gamecocks, although underdogs, topped us 20-0.

The tremendous rivalry between these two schools started back in 1876, just eight years after this agricultural and engineering school in the foothills welcomed its first freshman class. The Gamecocks took this first decision 12-6, but their winning ways weren't to continue. The next three years the Tigs shut out the Columbians twice and had only one touchdown scored on them the other year.

The next 15 years, from 1899 to 1914, there is a gap in the records of this great game. However, this is the only gap that has ever appeared since the teams started scheduling each other. For six years after the rivalry was resumed the Tigs stopped the Gamecocks five times and one contest ended in a scoreless deadlock. It was during this period that the Bengals handed the Gamecocks their worst defeat of the series.

When the Bengals participated in the Gator Bowl, they were suspended for a year from the Southern Conference. The idea was that Clemson could play no conference teams unless a state law required it. Carolina, being a member of the Southern Conference, was therefore required to mark Clemson off of their schedule. This was quickly remedied by the state legislature who passed a bill.

This was in 1918 when the Clemsonians stomped the Roosters 39-0. The greatest number of points the Gamecocks have piled up against the Tigs in one season was in 1925 when they ran over us 25-0.

Large scores are not the general rule when Clemson meets Carolina on Big Thursday. When both teams are keyed for this fracas very often the impossible happens.

Big Thursday has always been one of the most important week-ends at Clemson, as far as the freshmen are concerned. After spending six to eight weeks in Tigertown they, along with the rest of the troops, are let out for their first real vacation.

Big Thursdays have followed the same routine throughout the years. For a number of years the pep meeting (which was discontinued last year) was the main preparation for the contest. This giant array of spirit begins with continuous drum beating starting at 12 noon on Tuesday and ending 24 hours later on Wednesday. The main attraction at the pep meeting was the Gamecock funeral service presided over by the picturesque "Gator" Farr.

Clemson holds an edge over the Gamecocks in total games won. Up until this year the Tigs have conquered the Gamecocks 24 times while losing only 16 games. Three of the classics ended in a deadlock.

Since 1948 the Gamecocks have held a jinx over the Tigers. Clemson has been able to win only once, in 1948, 13-7, and again one tie, in 1950, 14-14, though we have been favored nearly every year. Last year the Gamecocks handed the Tigers a 14-7 pasting in Clemson's initial season, using the "T" formation.

This year Carolina has one of their strongest teams in history, and would seem to be the favorites. But the Tigers showed their fangs in Jacksonville last Saturday. They look like just the team to upset the apple cart for another Bengal victory.

Carolina Tickets

There is an agreement between the University of South Carolina and Clemson College that each student in the institutions should be able to get in free to the game. Therefore, $6.50 for an athletic fee is included in the individual student's tuition. A student can get a Carolina ticket for as long as they last merely on the presentation of his I. D. book. Any other person going to the game other than a Clemson or Carolina student must pay the ticket price of $4.80.

Chicagoan Tells Of Football Opinion

(Editor's note: This article is an excerpt from Sports Illustrated. It is not the feelings of this newspaper.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Robert M. Hutchins, under whose presidency the University of Chicago abandoned football in 1939, has written an article in this week's issue of SPORTS ILLUSTRATED called College Football is an Inherent Nuisance, protesting that we Americans are the only people in human history who ever got sports mixed up with higher education.

Hutchins is now president of the Fund for the Republic, but in the face of a recent move to try to reinstate football at Chicago, he states his violent aversion to the distractions and immorality of the sport on the collegiate level.

Function of the University
According to Hutchins, Chicago dropped football because the game hampered the university's efforts to become the kind of institution it aspired to be, one devoted to education, research, and scholarship. "Intercollegiate football," he says, "has little to do with any of these things and an institution that is to do well in them have to concentrate upon their and rid itself of irrelevancies, no matter how attractive or profitable."

Accepting sport in its proper place as attractive and valuable, he adds, "No other country looks to its universities as a prime source of athletic entertainment... and anybody who has watched, as I have, 12 university presidents spend half a day solemnly discussing the Rose Bowl agreement, or anybody who has read—as who has not?—portentous discussions of the "decline" of Harvard, Yale, Stanford, or Chicago because of the recurring defeats of its football team must realize that we in America are in a different world."

He doubts that it is a better world, saying, "I believe that one of the reasons why we attach such importance to the results of football games is that we have no clear idea of what a college or university is. We can't understand these institutions, even if we have graduated from one; but we can grasp the figures on the scoreboards."

Acceptance of Corruption
Decrying the fact that football has become a symbol of college life, even the spiritual core of the modern campus, Hutchins quotes the late Jeff Cravath: "Nearly all colleges still playing big-time schedules have been forced into the open market to obtain their raw material. They must bid for the best players—and make concessions to keep them. The fact that the system reduces the boys to perjurers, scalpers and gootball gigolos is ignored."

He points out that a college president must know the corrupt practices that are being used to build his football squad, but if he tries to stop them he runs afoul of prominent alumni on the board of trustees or board of regents, or alumni with endowment-available money. The pres-

Seventh-ranked Mississippi's opponent is Tulane. Mississippi posted a 22-7 victory over Vanderbilt while Mississippi State shut out Tulane 14-0 Saturday. Tulane is the underdog as Mississippi is favored by a score of 14 to 7.

Furman meets The Citadel on home grounds this Saturday. Both teams lost last week. Furman to South Carolina 27 to 7, and The Citadel to Richmond, 26 to 0. Furman is to win by a three touchdown margin, 28 to 7.

WHAT EVERY YOUNG COED SHOULD WEAR

Gather round, girls. Snap open a pack of Philip Morris, light up, relax and enjoy that mild fragrant vintage tobacco while Old Dad tells you about the latest campus fashions.

The key word this year is casual. Be casual. Be slapdash. Be rakish. Improvise. Invent your own ensembles—like ski pants with a peek-a-boo blouse, like pajama bottoms with an ermine stole, like a hocky sweater with a dirndl.

(Dirndl, incidentally, is one of the truly fascinating words in the English language. Etymologists have quarreled over its origin for years. Some hold with Professor Manley Ek that Dirndl is a corruption of Dardanelle and is so named because it resembles the skirts worn by the women of that region. This theory is at first glance plausible, but begins to fall apart when you consider that there are no women in the Dardanelle region because of the loathsome local custom of female infanticide.)

(Another theory is advanced by Dr. Clyde Feh. Dirndl, says he, is a contraction of "dairy in the dell" and refers to the milkmaidish appearance of the skirt. But again close examination causes one to abandon a plausible hypothesis. As every child knows, it is not "dairy in the dell" but "farmer in the dell", in which case the skirt should be called not dirndl but firndl.)

(There are some who contend we will never know the true origins of dirndl. To those faint hearted Cassandras I say, remember how everyone laughed at Edison and Franklin and Fulton and Marconi and Sigafoos. [Sigafoos, in case you have forgotten, invented the nostril, without which breathing, as we know it today, would not be possible.] The origins of dirndl will be found, say I, and anyone who believes the contrary is a lily-livered churl and if he'll step outside for a minute, I'll give him a thrashing he won't soon forget.)

But I digress. We were smoking a Philip Morris and talking about the latest campus styles. Casual, we agree, is the key word. But casual need not mean drab. Liven up your outfits with a touch of glamor. Even the lowly dungaree and man-shirt combination can be made exciting if you'll adorn it with a simple necklace of 120 matched diamonds. With Bermuda shorts, wear gold knee-cymbals. Be guided by the famous poet Cosmo Sigafoos (whose brother Sam it was who invented the nostril) who wrote:

Sparkle, my beauty,
Shimmer and shine,
The night is young,
The air's like wine,
Cling to a leaf,
Hang on a vine,
Crawl on your belly,
It's time to dine.

(Mr. Sigafoos, it should be explained, was writing about a glow-worm. Insects, as everyone knows, are among Mr. Sigafoos' favorite subjects for poems. Who can ever forget his immortal Ode to a Boll Weevil? Or his Tumbling Along With the Tumbling Tumblebug? Or his Fly Gently, Sweet Aphid? Mr. Sigafoos has been inactive since the invention of DDT.)

But I digress. We were smoking a Philip Morris and discussing fashions. Let us turn now to headwear. The motif in hats this year will be familiar American scenes. There will be models to fit every head—for example, the "Empire State Building" for tall thin heads; the "Jefferson Memorial" for squatty ones; "Niagara Falls" for dry scalps. Feature of the collection is the "Statue of Liberty," complete with a torch that actually burns. This is very handy for lighting your Philip Morris, which is very important because no matter how good Philip Morris are, they're nowhere unless you light them.

We come now to the highlight of this year's fashion parade—a mad fad that's sweeping the chic set at high tone campuses all over the country. All the gals who are in the van, in the swim, and in the know are doing it. Doing what, you ask? Getting tattooed, of course! You just don't rate these days unless you've got at least an anchor on your biceps. If you really want to be the envy of the campus, get yourself a four masted schooner, or a heart with FATHER printed inside of it, or a—

I interrupt this column to bring you a special announcement. A runner has just handed me the following bulletin:

"The origin of the word dirndl has at long last been discovered. On June 27, 1846, Dusty Schwartz, the famous scout and Indian fighter, went into the Golden Nugget Saloon in Cheyenne, Wyoming. The Golden Nugget had just imported a new entertainer from the East. She came out and did her dance in pink tights. Dusty Schwartz had never seen anything like that in his life, and he was much impressed. He watched with keen interest as she did her numbers, and he thought about her all the way home. When he got home, his wife Feldspar was waiting to show him a new skirt she had made for herself. 'How do you like my new skirt, Dusty?' said Feldspar. He looked at the large voluminous garment, then thought of the pink tights on the dancing girl. 'Your skirt is darn dull,' said Dusty. 'Darn dull' was later shortened to 'dirndl' which is how dirndls got their name."

Dean Sams Judges For Lincoln Foundation Contest

Dr. James H. Sams, Dean of the School of Engineering, recently acted as a judge of papers submitted in the national competition for awards of the James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation.

Other judges were Dr. E. E. Dreese, of the Department of Electrical Engineering of Ohio State University, and Professor Sidney Shore, of the School of Civil Engineering at the University of Pennsylvania.

The James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation is a foundation created through a deed of trust in 1936 with the purpose of increasing knowledge, design, and practical application of the arc welding process. In addition to promoting development in the welding field, the Foundation has provided funds for libraries, text books, films, and papers on uses and extensions of welding.

Richard Seikaly of Syracuse, New York, has achieved top honors among engineering undergraduate students by winning the First Grand Award in the national design competition. The award, which was accompanied by a check for $1,250, was made for a paper presenting a comparison study of a band saw frame to demonstrate the advantage of welded design over cast iron design. The Foundation also presented Syracuse University, where Seikaly made the study, $1,000 for four annual scholarships honoring Seikaly.

The award was one of 46 made by the Foundation to 62 engineering students representing 25 different engineering colleges. The Foundation sponsors a design competition annually among engineering undergraduates for welded designs of machinery or machine parts and welded structures or structural parts. In addition to the national recognition, the competition offers $5,000 to students and $1,750 to schools in scholarship funds.

Seikaly's paper presented his analysis of the design and manufacturing of a band saw frame both for cast iron and welded steel. The welded steel design proved to be 2 1/2 times lighter and 3 1/2 times less expensive than the cast iron design.

The Second Grand Award of $1,000 was shared by Richard Tannenbaum and Jay Gang, students at New York University. They made a comparison study of a bolted vs. a welded billboard sign. Their study showed a 27% cost advantage for welding. Their school received $500 for scholarships in their honor.

The Third Grand Award of $500 went to David Homnold at the University of Oklahoma which received $250 in his honor. The Foundation is sponsoring the eighth annual competition of the Award Program for 1954-55. All engineering undergraduates are eligible, and the Rules may be obtained from The James F. Lincoln Arc Welding Foundation, Cleveland 17, Ohio.

Dr. Hind Reaches Some Results In Math Researching

Dr. Alfred T. Hind, associate professor of mathematics, has been working for some time on the problem of accurately estimating error encountered in integral calculus problems dealing with areas under irregular curves.

The problem was first brought to Dr. Hind's attention during the summer of 1953. At this time he was employed at the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington working on a high speed electronic computing machine project.

Dr. Hind obtained his B. A. and M. A. from Emory University in 1934 and 1936. He received his PhD from the University of Georgia in August of 1952.

Dr. Hind has already reached what he believes to be results of a definite value. He plans to work on this subject for some time.

Tiger Editors To Attend Confab

Frank Anderson and Roger Yike, co-editors of the TIGER, are planning to attend the national Associated Collegiate Press convention in Washington, D. C. on October 21-22.

Headquarters for the convention will be at the Hotel Statler. Delegates from college newspapers all over the country will be there for the two day meeting.

A number of prominent men from newspapers and college faculties will speak to the delegates during the course of the convention. There will also be student led panel discussions on all phases of the newspaper field.

A reception will be held Thursday night from 7:00 p. m. to 9:00 p. m. to give all the delegates a chance to meet informally and exchange ideas on publications.

Friday night, a banquet and dance will be held to end the convention activities.

Admission Test For Graduate Study Announced

The Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business, required for entrance by a number of graduate business schools or divisions throughout the country, will be offered twice during the coming year, according to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test. During 1954, many students took the test in partial satisfaction of admission requirements of graduate business schools which prescribed it. Among these institutions are the graduate business schools or divisions of the following universities:

Columbia University, Harvard University, Northwestern University, Rutgers University, Seton Hall University, Syracuse University, University of Chicago, University of Michigan, University of Pennsylvania, Washington University (St. Louis).

A candidate must make separate application for admission to each business school of his choice and should inquire of each whether it wishes him to take the Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business and when. Since many business schools select their entering classes in the spring preceding their entrance, candidates are advised to offer the February test, if possible.

The Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business is not designed to test specific knowledge in specialized academic subjects. Normal under-graduate training should provide sufficient general knowledge to answer the test questions. Sample questions and information regarding registration and administration of the test are given in a Bulletin of Information.

The tests will be administered on February 3, 1955 and May 14, 1955. Applications and fees must be filed with the Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey, at least two weeks before the testing date desired in order to allow ETS time to complete the necessary testing arrangements.

tackles, DeSimone and Kane at guards, and Wingo Avery or Bill McLellan at center. In the backfield, the Bengals will have King, Joe Paglie, Joel Wells and Neuf Ankuta.

This year's Big Thursday promises to be a closer contest than any State Fair Contest in recent years. The victory could go either way and the smallest kind of a break could well decide the contest.

Although all foreign countries are happy to have the dollars American tourists bring in, the boastful, condescending attitude of the average tourist does little to increase respect for America.

The members of the panel expressed skepticism regarding the possibility of "selling democracy" to people with traditional patterns of government entirely different from ours, and recognized the fact that the respect the United States enjoys abroad has an economic rather than a political or cultural basis.

Dr. C. W. Bolen acted as moderator for the panel.

Dean Brown Began Teaching At Clemson College In 1927

By DAN RICHARDS

Among the familiar faces here at Clemson is that of Dr. Hugh Monroe Brown, Dean of the School of Textiles. He has been here at Clemson since the fall of 1927 when he was a professor in the physics department.

Dr. Brown attended the University of Denver where he was graduated with a B. S. degree in physics. He then attended the University of California where he received his doctor's degree.

After serving as professor of physics for ten years he was promoted to the dean of physics upon retirement of Professor Godfrey. While serving in the Department of Physics, he and his associates built approximately 1500 pieces of laboratory equipment, many of which are still in general use.

From 1942 to 1945 Dr. Brown was at M. I. T. doing radar research work. Upon completion of this assignment he returned to Clemson. Instead of returning to his old position of Dean of Physics he was appointed Dean of Textiles. He has served in this capacity since that time.

After his appointment he became interested in textile research and as a result of his work there were 42 improvements made in the textile machinery. Of these 42, there were 5 patented and the patents assigned to the college.

There have been models made of these machines and one is on the market for general use.

Under the direction of Dr. Brown there have been papers published, conventions held, and demonstrations held in connection with the Textile Department.

His duties are varied and extensive. They range from the supervision of the department to the purchasing of office supplies. Since Dr. Brown came back to Clemson as Dean of Textiles the Textile Department has doubled in size and recognition.

His works and activities are not limited to the Textile Department alone. He is a member of the Fibre Society and the American Society of Textile Manufacturers, Textile School Representative on the sub-committee to the Cotton & Cotton Seed Committee of the United States Department of Agriculture, American Society of Quality Control, and many others.

His two sons have made names for themselves, also. One is employed by the Radio Corporation of America as a sales promotion supervisor. His other son works in the Mechanical division of the Southern Region of the Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Brown was married in 1922 to Miss Edna W. Welch. He met her while attending the University of Denver. She was graduated with a degree in Arts and Sciences. He and his wife thought about going into missionary work, but decided otherwise.

During his summer vacations he worked as a carpenter to pay his way through college. Through the knowledge gained from this work he and his sons were able to build their own home.

Dr. Brown also oversees the numerous research projects carried on by the department. They

Student Gov't. Association To Hold Meeting At Clemson

Allston Mitchell, President of the Student Body and also President of the Student Government Association of South Carolina announces that the S. G. A. S. C. will hold its annual business meeting here at Clemson during the month of November, with tentative dates being set on the 18th and the 19th.

Member schools are Clemson, the University of South Carolina, Winthrop, Converse, Furman (Mens College), Furman (Women's College), Presbyterian, Wofford, Lander and Newberry College.

Also invited to attend the meeting are Coker College, Limestone, Spartanburg Junior College, North Greenville Junior College, Anderson College, The Citadel, Erskine, and the College of Charleston.

Each member school will have an official delegation consisting of four voting members headed by a chairman. Other delegates are welcomed, however. State Officers do not count as members of the school's official delegation.

Allston sent all of the member schools and guest schools letters requesting the suitability of a meeting date. He is very optimistic about the meeting and is expecting a large number of delegates to attend. The Student Body will be called on to help to make this meeting a success.

do a great deal of work for the textile industry.

His outside interest is growing flowers. He has received 1st prize for the last two years at the Greenville flower show.

From all view points Dr. Brown is a fine and learned man. He is never too busy to help discuss the problems of a student or faculty member. His office door is always open for those who need his help and advice.

His contributions to Clemson certainly have helped to make the college one of the best textile schools in the country.

Sloan Announces Tennis Plans For '54-55 Season

Tennis Coach Hoke Sloan reports that the tennis team has started practice with the following lettermen returning: Chandler Kinsey, Angus Lander, Khin Si, and Bill Seabrook. There are also several hot sophomore prospects, including Don Mitchell, Ed Scarpa, Chris Theon, and Terry Wise. Among the men out for the first time, Jack Leutwyler is showing up well and may be among the regulars.

Chandler Kinsey has taken over the job of captain, which Dick James, last year's captain and number one player, vacated. Don Mitchell is the 1954 business manager.

According to Coach Sloan, the 1955 schedule will be the hardest ever attempted, with the Tiger team playing North Carolina, Duke, Maryland, Virginia, Cornell, North Carolina State, Wake Forest, and South Carolina. They will also play all members of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The Tiger "racketeers," according to reports, have been practicing hard and fast every afternoon and should make a good showing against the opponents which come from all along the eastern seaboard.

For it is a driver's car... a low-slung torpedo with a center of gravity only 18 inches above the concrete... with outrigger rear springs that make it hold to the road like a stripe of paint... with a 16 to 1 steering ratio that puts needle-threading accuracy at your finger tips.

Frankly, the Corvette is a "limited edition," made only in small numbers. MR. RIMMER

Mr. Rimmer Returns Here As New Provost Officer

By PICK COLLINS

Among the new personalities in the administration at Clemson this year is Mr. H. W. Rimmer, provost officer. He takes the place of M/Sgt. David L. Dickerson who left in June due to a re-assignment by the U. S. Army.

Mr. Rimmer is not altogether a stranger in Clemson. In 1947, after helping close an Army post at Pensacola, Florida, he applied for civilian component work and was assigned to Clemson.

From 1947 to 1949 he held the position of assistant Military Science and Tactics instructor in the military department. In 1949, Mr. Rimmer was made Sergeant Major, and held this position until June of 1952. At this time he was transferred to Fort Jackson. He remained there until he retired from the Army in May, 1954.

Mr. Rimmer was born in Canton, Mississippi where he grew up and received his high school training. In November, 1926 he entered the service. Serving his career in the Army, Mr. Rimmer has done Administrative work entirely in the Quartermaster Corps.

The other two components of the Rimmer family are Angia, age 17 and Henry, Jr., age 16. The family lives at 104 Sloan Street and attend the Methodist Church. Mr. Rimmer is a member of the American Legion. His hobby is bowling and he is also an avid football and baseball fan.

Smokey Says:

Keydet Battles It Out At Clemson SC Game

By PICK COLLINS

Exactly one week from today an event will take place that will most probably shape the future of the world—well, some parts of the world.

That event is the battle between the mighty Clemson Tigers and some kind of birds from that school in Columbia that always plays them on Big Thursday. (Its easy to forget insignificant names, things, etc.)

This event calls for a "Ball-you-all" for all the young gentlemen at Clemson. The troops start drifting, sneaking, crawling, and running away from this old school about supper time Tuesday and by Wednesday supper the campus is like a deserted island.

These are the first legal holidays of the new school year. When the boys get home they realize how much they have missed their folks. On Thursday morning, the typical Clemson cadet gets up early, gets dressed, and hurries to Carolina stadium to be sure to get there in plenty of time.

At the gate he is offered seven dollars for his ticket, but, like any lover of good football would do, he turns it down. He takes the next offer of ten dollars. In his mind he can't understand how such a brilliant mind like his is letting him fall economics. What a business head on those shoulders!!

He hears the roar of the crowds in the stadium, and he hopes the Fighting Tigers are winning their first game in five years. But win or lose the Senior privates will still have to carry rifles.

Toys To Be Taken Up For Negroes

Clemson is being canvassed this week for discarded toys under the leadership of the Association for the Development of the Clemson Negro Community. These toys will be repaired and brightened by the Negro adult education class and other groups for Christmas giving in the Negro community.

Centers have been designated for the assembly of the toys. October 16 has been set as collection day to transfer the toys from the assembly centers to the Negro community. Citizens missed by canvassers may call Mrs. Garven Cannon, Sr., Telephone 5152.

According to Dr. Ray Rutledge, president of the Association for the Development of the Negro Community, play ground equipment is needed for the Negro nursery school established for pre-school children of working mothers. Used equipment will be repaired by parents of the Negro community.

This association was established in Clemson to help the Negro develop their community in all ways possible. It is a member organization of the Clemson Community Council.

The remainder of the week-end is like a dream. Parties, dates, and relations with old friends make for three days of the most fun since last big Thursday weekend. Then it happens. Suddenly like a bolt of lightning it strikes. THE WEEKEND IS OVER. But the memory of those days lives on in every one's mind.

Since Big Thursday comes but once a year, many make the most of it while it makes the most of many. After all is said and done all agree that this weekend is one of the most enjoyable during the year. However, there is one question that remains in our minds—"Are we going to beat Wake Forest?"

Community Group To Meet On Friday

The Clemson Community Council will meet in the Chemistry Building on Friday, October 15, at 7:30 p. m. All townspeople are invited and urged to be present.

The budget committee of the community council has completed a study of requests from local organizations. The board of directors is prepared to submit recommendations for the campaign goals to the council in general sessions.

The annual funds drive for eight local and six national organizations will be combined into one united effort. The drive is scheduled for the week of October 31 through November 6.

Professor Bair Receives Kress Fund Grant

Professor G. E. Bair, of the English Department of the School of Arts and Sciences, has been given a grant by the Kress Fund for a special study project. Professor Bair's project is the making of a chronological list of the plays presented in London between 1700 and 1850.

This list of plays according to the date they were first produced is designed to answer a need in the study of English drama which has been felt up to this time. Until the present day, plays have been listed according to author. This method of listing does not reflect the changes in dramatic themes which occur with the passage of time and does not provide for identification of anonymous plays in other literature of the same period. Chronological listing of plays should provide a means of avoiding these difficulties.

Professor Bair is working by himself on this project. The Kress grant which he has amounts to $250, which is to cover the cost of a pilot study on the subject.

U.S.C. To Present Vespers Sunday

On Sunday, October 17, the University of South Carolina will send a delegation to present vespers at the Y. M. C. A.

The delegation will be led by Margaret Hunter, Van McIntyre, and Rankin Suber. A good program is expected from these Carolina students.

On Sunday, October 31, Columbia College will send a delegation to present vespers.

Tiger Staff To Meet On Monday

The Tiger staff will hold a meeting Monday night, October 18. The group will meet at 9 o'clock in the TIGER office below the old quadrangle.

Bob Bradley, former TIGER editor, now working with the Clemson Alumni Association will be present and will give the staff a few ideas on how to improve the paper.

Mistakes made in the TIGER so far this year will be brought out. Every one on the TIGER staff is requested to be present for this important meeting.

NOTICE!

Any one desiring to pay for these 1954-55 TAPS is requested to come to the TAPS office any night after long roll. It is very important that all subscriptions for the year book be in at the earliest possible date.

Pershing Rifles Present Drill At Jacksonville, Fla.

Fifty-three members of the Clemson Pershing Rifles Platoon made the trip to Jacksonville, Florida, last weekend. The fancy-drill platoon put on an exhibition of its special drills during the half-time break in the game and acted as the major portion of the Clemson cheering section during the game itself. While in Jacksonville, the platoon was the guest of the naval base there.

On Wednesday, October 6, the Pershing Rifles Platoon made a trip to Rock Hill, to participate in the festivities welcoming home Dusty Rhodes. On this coming Saturday morning the platoon will drill for the convention of the Fourth Regiment of the Pershing Rifles. The Clemson organization will be host for the other members of the fourth regiment attending this convention.

Plans are also being made for the Pershing Rifles to drill at the football games with Wake Forest, in Charlotte, and Furman, at Clemson.

Initiation for new members of the drill platoon will begin on Monday after the State Fair holidays. Fifty-one new men will be taken into the group.
